

The time is out of joint; O cursed spite,
That ever I was born to make it right!
Nay, come, let's go together.

*William Shakespeare
Hamlet, Act I, Scene V*

The most significant event of your life calls to you, from barely beyond your perception . . . both imminent and impossible.

Unconsciously, Ian Sarin has responded to such a call, opening a portal to the mysterious caller. Understanding why she calls will press him with a new definition of both self and the world he lives in. Failure to do so will cost more than just Ian's sanity and health.

Sacred Vow is about parallel realities coming together to heal a rift in the Collective Consciousness. A breach that threatens us all.
